Brunei Deep Water Exploration: From Sea Floor Images and Shallow Seismic Analogues to Depositional Models in a slope Turbidite Setting ......................................................... 304

Reservoir-Scale Characteristics of Fine-Grained Sheet Sandstones, Tanqua Karoo Subbasin, South Africa .............................................................................................................. 318
  P. Dudley, D. Rehmer, A. Bouma

Depositional Architecture of a Sand-Rich, Channelized Turbidite System: The Upper Carboniferous Ross Sandstone Formation, Western Ireland ................................................ 342
  T. Elliott

High Resolution Morpho-Sedimentary Characteristics of the Distal Orinoco Turbidite System .......................................................................................................................... 374
  G. Ercilla, B. Alonso, J. Baraza

Production Characteristics of Sheet and Channelized Turbidite Reservoirs, Garden Banks 191, Gulf of Mexico, U.S.A .......................................................................................... 389
  D. Fugitt, G. Herricks, M. Wise, C. Stelting, W. Schweller

The Interaction of Shelf Accommodation, Sediment Supply and Sea Level in Controlling the Facies, Architecture and Sequence Stacking Patterns of the Tay and Forties/Sele Basin-Floor Fans, Central North Sea ................................................................. 402
  D. Jennette, T. Garfield, D. Mohrig, G. Cayley

The Annot Sandstone Outcrops (French Alps): Architecture Description as Input for Quantification and 3D Reservoir Modeling .............................................................................. 422

Turbidite Reservoir Architecture in the Northern Gulf of Mexico Deepwater: Insights from the Development of Auger, Tahoe, and Ram/Powell Fields ...................................................... 450
  J. Kendrick

The Relationship Between Channelized Deep-Water Reservoir Architecture and Recovery from Petroleum Reservoirs .......................................................................................... 469
  D. Larue, F. Friedman

Exploring Deepwater Technical Challenges in the Gulf of Mexico ........................................................................ 473
  D. Lawrence, D. Bosman-Smits
Lessons Learned from the Management of Basin Floor Submarine Fan Reservoirs in the UKCS
A. Leonard, L. Jolley, A. Carter, C. Mills, N. Jones, M. Bowman ................................................................. 478

Characterization of Lateral Heterogeneities in an Exceptionally Exposed Turbidite Sand Body, Gres d'Annot (Eocene-Oligocene), SE France
S. Lomas, B. Cronin, A. Hartley, D. Duranti, A. Hurst, E. Mackay, S. Clark, B. Palumbo, S. Kelly .......................................................... 502

Remobilization and injection in Deepwater Depositional Systems: Implications for Reservoir Architecture and Prediction

Upper Carboniferous Deep Water Sediments, Western Ireland: Analogue for Passive Margin Turbidite Plays
O. Martinsen, T. Lien, R. Walker .......................................................... 533

Volume 2

The Architecture of Turbidite Slope Channels
M. Mayall, I. Stewart .......................................................... 556

Bounding Surfaces, Lithologic Variability, and Sandstone Connectivity Within Submarine-Canyon Outcrops, Eocene of San Diego, California
J. May, J. Warme .......................................................... 565

Using Outcrop Analogs to Improve 3D Heterogeneity Modeling of Brazilian Sand-Rich Turbidite Reservoirs
M. Moraes, M. Becker, M. Monteiro, S. Netto .......................................................... 587

Reservoir Architecture of Deepwater Sandstones: Examples from the Skoorsteinberg Formation, Tanqua Karoo Sub-Basin, South Africa
W. Morris, M. Scheihing, D. Wickens, A. Bouma .......................................................... 604

Sedimentologic and Geometric Criteria for Comparing Modern and Ancient Sandy Turbidite Elements
W. Morris, W. Normark .......................................................... 642

Sequence Stratigraphy of the Alaminos Fan (Upper Miocene-Pleistocene), Northwestern Deep Gulf of Mexico
C. Morton, P. Weimer .......................................................... 665

Reservoir Architecture of a Fine-Grained Turbidite System: Lower Triassic Montney Formation, Western Canada Sedimentary Basin
T. Moslow .......................................................... 684

Variation of Modern Turbidite Systems Along the Subduction Zone Margin of Cascadia Basin and Implications for Turbidite Reservoir Beds
C. Nelson, C. Goldfinger, J. Johnson, G. Dunhill .......................................................... 712
