56th AES International Conference 2015

Audio for Games

London, United Kingdom
11 – 13 February 2015

Editor:

D. Murphy

Table of Contents

PAPER SESSION 1: EDUCATION AND TRAINING

1-1 Designing Next-Gen Academic Curricula for Game-Centric Procedural Audio and Music—Rob Hamilton, Stanford University, CCRMA, Stanford, CA, USA

PAPER SESSION 2: GENERATIVE MUSIC SYSTEMS

2-1 barelyMusician: An Adaptive Music Engine for Video Games—Alper Gangarmusler, Natasa Paterson-Paulberg, Mads Haahr, Trinity College Dublin, Dublin, Ireland

2-2 Dynamic Game Soundtrack Generation in Response to a Continuously Varying Emotional Trajectory—Duncan Williams, Alexis Körke, Joel Eaton, Eduardo Miranda, Ian Daly, James Hallowell, Etienne Roesch, Faustina Hwang, Slawomir Nasuto

2-3 VeeMix: Integration of Musical User-Generated Content in Games—Karen Collins, Alexander Hodge, Ruth Dockrey, Bill Kapralos

PAPER SESSION 3: GAME MUSIC SYSTEMS

3-1 The Generative Music of SIM Cell—Leonard Paul, School of Video Game Audio, Vancouver, BC, Canada

3-2 Extreme Ninjas Use Windows, Not Doors: Addressing Video Game Fidelity Though Ludo-Narrative Music in the Stealth Genre—Richard Stevens, Dave Raybould, Danny McDermott

3-3 Implementation and Evaluation of Dynamic Level of Audio Detail—Gabriel Durr, Lys Peixoto, Marcelo Souza, Raisa Tanoue, Joshua D. Reiss, Queen Mary University, London, London, UK

PAPER SESSION 4: SPATIAL AUDIO IN GAMES

4-1 Challenges of the Headphone Mix in Games—Aristotel Digenis, FreeStyleGames (Activision), Leamington Spa, UK

4-2 Efficient Compact Representation of Head Related Transfer Functions for Portable Game Audio—Joseph Sinker, Jamie Angus, University of Salford, Salford, UK

4-3 Fear and Localization: Emotional Fine-Tuning Utilizing Multiple Source Directions—Samuel Hughes, Gavin Kearney, University of York, Yorkshire, UK