ENABLING COURAGE: AGENTIC STRATEGIES OF WOMEN OF COLOR IN COMPUTING ................................................................. 31
Hodari, A.K. ; Ong, M. ; Ko, L.T. ; Smith, J.

WHAT INFLUENCES FEMALE INTEREST AND PERSISTENCE IN COMPUTING? PRELIMINARY FINDINGS FROM A MULTI-YEAR STUDY ............................................................. 38
Dabrow, W.M. ; James-Hawkins, L.

STRENGTHENING THE COMPUTING RESEARCH PIPELINE THROUGH MINORITY PARTICIPATION: THE CASE FOR UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH EXPERIENCES ................................................................................................................................. 43
Nyame-Mensah, A.

RACIAL AND GENDERED EXPERIENCES THAT DISSUADE A CAREER IN THE PROFESSORIATE ................................................................................................................................. 50
Robinson, W.H. ; McGee, E.O. ; Bentley, L.C. ; Houston, S.L. ; Botchway, P.K. ; Roy, B.

LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, TRANSGENDER, AND QUEER STUDENTS’ SENSE OF BELONGING IN COMPUTING ................................................................................................................................. 55
Stout, J.G. ; Wright, H.M.

A CRITICAL RESEARCH SYNTHESIS OF PRIVILEGE IN COMPUTING EDUCATION ................................................................. 60
Parker, M.C. ; Guzdial, M.

ENCOURAGING ONLINE CONTRIBUTIONS IN UNDERREPRESENTED POPULATIONS ................................................................................................................................. 65
Nacu, D.C. ; Martin, C.K. ; Sandherr, J. ; Pinkard, N.

JULIAN SCHOLARS: RECRUITING AND GRADUATING LOW-INCOME, FIRST-GENERATION COMPUTER SCIENCE MAJORS ................................................................................................................................. 69
Townsend, G.C. ; Sloan, K.

THE IMPACT OF MEANINGFUL HIGH SCHOOL COMPUTER SCIENCE EXPERIENCES IN THE CHICAGO PUBLIC SCHOOLS ................................................................................................................................. 77
Dettori, L. ; Greenberg, R.I. ; McGee, S. ; Reed, D.

BJC IN ACTION: COMPARISON OF STUDENT PERCEPTIONS OF A COMPUTER SCIENCE PRINCIPLES COURSE ................................................................................................................................. 81
Price, T.W. ; Albert, J. ; Catete, V. ; Barnes, T.

UNDERSTANDING THE ATTITUDES OF AFRICAN AMERICAN MIDDLE SCHOOL GIRLS TOWARD COMPUTER SCIENCE ................................................................................................................................. 85
Robinson, A. ; Pérez-Quinones, M.A. ; Scales, G.

MULTI-TRACK PROGRAMMING COMPETITIONS WITH SCRATCH ................................................................................................................................. 93
Arnold, Jason ; Bort, Heather ; Naugle, Ryan ; O’Hare, Casey ; Brylow, Dennis

COMPUTING OUTREACH LITERATURE REVIEW ................................................................................................................................. 95
Decker, Adrienne ; McGill, Monica M. ; Settle, Amber

RECRUITMENT STRATEGIES TO INCREASE GIRLS SELECTING A SOFTWARE ENGINEERING HIGH SCHOOL ................................................................................................................................. 97
DeLyser, Leigh Ann ; Williams, Yvonne

EARSKEITH: A STEAM APPROACH TO BROADENING PARTICIPATION IN COMPUTER SCIENCE PRINCIPLES ................................................................................................................................. 99
Freeman, Jason ; Magerko, Brian ; Edwards, Doug ; Moore, Roxanne ; McKlin, Tom ; Xambo, Anna

USING APP INVENTOR & HISTORY AS A GATEWAY TO ENGAGE AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDENTS IN COMPUTER SCIENCE ................................................................................................................................. 101
Jimenez, Yerika ; Gardner-McCune, Christina
WHAT IF INTRAVERTED WOMEN TEND TO DISLIKE JAVA AND OBJECT ORIENTED
PROGRAMMING? ................................................................. 103
Lou, Ronald P.; Caughey, Lucinda

DESIGNING A PRE-SERVICE CS TEACHER EDUCATION PROGRAM WITH A FOCUS ON DIVERSITY ................................................................................................. 105
Sweany, Philp

IT'S ALL IN THE MIX: LEVERAGING FOOD TO INCREASE STUDENTS’ PERSISTENCE IN
COMPUTER SCIENCE ............................................................................ 107
Thomas, Jakita O.; Rankin, Yolanda

UNCOVERING BARRIERS TO PARTICIPATION THROUGH MAPPING CITYWIDE
COMPUTING OPPORTUNITIES IN CHICAGO: WHAT DO WE MEAN BY ACCESS? ........................................ 109
Acholonu, Ugochi; Pingrey, Katie; Pinkard, Nichole; Martin, Caitlin K.

EXPOSING RURAL AFRICAN-AMERICAN STUDENTS TO COMPUTER SCIENCE AS A
CAREER CHOICE USING ROBOTS .................................................... 110
Dillon, Edward C.; Anderson-Herzog, Monica

EMPLOYING NARRATIVES TO TRIGGER INTEREST IN COMPUTATIONAL ACTIVITIES
WITH INNER-CITY GIRLS ................................................................. 111
Erete, Sheena; Pinkard, Nichole; Martin, Caitlin K.; Sandherr, Jim

TECH GIRLS SHINE: INCREASING COMMITMENT TO DIVERSITY THROUGH OUTREACH .................. 112
Fleenor, Hillary; Alexander, Britni; Chouchane, Radhouna

OPENING DOORS TO COMMUNITIES OF PRACTICE: PROGRAMMATIC INTERVENTIONS
FOR INCLUSION IN THE COMPUTING SCIENCES .................................. 113
Leung, Mary Ann; McNeely, Connie L.

THE CONNECTED LEARNER: DESIGN PATTERNS FOR TRANSFORMING COMPUTING
AND INFORMATICS EDUCATION .......................................................... 114
Maher, Mary Lou; Cukic, Bojan; Payton, Jamie; Latulipe, Celine; Rogelberg, Steven; Rorrer, Audrey

DEVELOPING FOCUSED RECRUITMENT STRATEGIES TO ENGAGE YOUTH IN INFORMAL OPPORTUNITIES ...................................................................... 115
Martin, Caitlin K.; Erete, Sheena; Pinkard, Nichole

COMPUTING PRE-COLLEGE PROGRAM: INITIAL IMPACT TO FIRST-YEAR STUDENT IN
COMPUTER SCIENCE ........................................................................... 116
Muhammad, Jean; Boonthum-Denecke, Chutima

ON THE BENEFITS OF SPECIALIZED SETTINGS FOR DEAF AND HARD OF HEARING
STUDENTS IN COMPUTING................................................................. 117
Stout, Jane G.
